

Anne Stennett

I came to live in Humshaugh in 2018 – returning ‘home’ to the North of England (I was born and bred in Yorkshire). After teaching History in secondary schools, I became Deputy Principal of a College of Education in the Midlands, training student teachers, and then Deputy Director of (the now named) Bath Spa University. As a mature student I undertook postgraduate studies in Industrial Relations and, after retirement, became an Inspector of Theological Colleges and Churchwarden of Bath Abbey.

I am honoured to be a Foundation Governor of Humshaugh First School. My commitment is rooted in my Christian faith: to serve; to aim for excellence; to enable each child to achieve full potential; to strive to create a school community which models how we should live together.
