

Lynne Thomson

I first came to the North East to train as a Primary school teacher. I then went on to teach in Derby, Manchester and Newcastle.

In 1995, I was appointed to teach in an international school in Hong Kong and to develop a programme of integration for students with learning differences. Working with children, families and teachers from many countries was both rewarding and enjoyable. In 2011, I became Principal, responsible for students from Reception to Year 13.

Living in Hong Kong, gave me many opportunities to travel and develop my interests in cooking and photography.

Having now retired to live in Hexham, I enjoy walking, reading and being a member of the Abbey community. I was pleased to be appointed a foundation governor to the school and take pleasure in volunteering in the classrooms.
