

Governor Profile – Kathy Nelson

I have been living in Humshaugh since late 2017, though I have known it for over 30 years as my husband's parents and grandparents have always lived here. I am originally from Dumfriesshire, and studied French and German at Glasgow University (with terms at French and German Universities.) I worked for an Austrian plastics company for many years, and also gave tuition up to GCSE level in both languages. Recently I have been trying my hand at writing books for older children.

For thirty years I lived in the south east, in London and Buckinghamshire. I have two sons and two baby granddaughters. Both my sons are dyslexic and I have a particular interest in literacy and helping children overcome difficulties with language. I volunteer at Humshaugh First School, helping with reading. I also attend the local church in Humshaugh and would describe myself as a Christian.
