

Herbie Newell

I have lived in Humshaugh since 1989, with our daughter and now grandchildren attending the village school. Prior to my retirement in 2016, I spent 45 years as a scientist working on new drug treatments for cancer, most recently at the Northern Institute for Cancer Research, Newcastle University. I help at the school on a regular basis with Forest School /Outdoor learning and also in support of STEM activities.

I believe passionately that our school is the life-blood of our community, and welcome the opportunity of supporting the outstanding staff in enabling our wonderful children to realise their full potential in a challenging world.
